Culture/History/Travel Fair Planning Notes:

Science Fair/Cultural Fair Thoughts

On another note -- I have reached out to a number of people about the science fair share... They had a couple of great pointers (about the set-up/flow)... Tony explained he did his best with the requirements people had -- need for electrical outlets/posters and things like that. But having done it once (from what I understand) there was room for improvement there. I think (from what I understand) I need to put together a bit better of a sign up sheet and think through what to put on there (a column for "Do you need an electrical outlet" "Do you need wall space")

And, from the very informal polling I've done so far there is quite a bit of interest in the culture/history/travel type fair (Does anyone have a suggestion for a name??) -- A couple of great ideas were added... in addition to tables where people can display things from their travels/life abroad/geography type stuff... we could have

- Language tables set up -- where people could all gather together to speak in German/Spanish/French. That would take some asking around to see if there were people willing/excited to do that. I have a number of names so far.
- Dessert table -- for dishes from around the world
- I was told that combining this with Soup for SERVE worked well -- It meant that they made the 2nd highest profits in a long time!
