December Sermon Descriptions

December 3: Heretics: The Polish Unitarian Brethren (Rev. Charlotte Lehmann) – During this morning's service we'll explore the early roots of Unitarian Universalism in Poland in the 16th century and will include photos from the Polish Unitarian Heritage Pilgrimage that Rev. Lehmann experienced in September.

December 10: Sharing the Light (David Maley & BRUU Choir) — Our annual December Music Service explores the many faith traditions that celebrate holidays during this time of year by "sharing the light" — including through the ritual lighting of candles — of hope, love, and community. This is a multigenerational (MG) service of song and reflection. This month's 2nd Sunday Share-the-Plate recipient is Beacon House, D.C. (https://beaconhousedc.org/). Note: There is no Religious Education programming this morning, but the Nursery is open for those who need it.

December 17: Celebrating the Winter Solstice (Rev. Charlotte Lehmann) – The shortest day and longest night of the year is coming up. This morning, we will mark the Winter Solstice with an earth-centered worship service. The 3rd Sunday Share-the -Plate benefits BRUU's Community Assistance Fund.

December 24: Christmas Eve Morning (Rev. Charlotte Lehmann) – During this multigenerational (MG) service, we will experience the Christmas Story as a norehearsal pageant and sing traditional Christmas carols. Come join in the spirit of the holiday! Please note: This 10 a.m. Sunday worship service is our only service this year. Also note: There is no Religious Education programming this morning, but the Nursery is open for those who need it.

December 31: Puzzling Life (Jannette and Star Muir) – Long time puzzle enthusiasts, Janette and Star invite you to a service on the metaphorical framework and the importance of encountering life's enigmas. From health benefits of mental activity to viewing our search for meaning as a series of changing and challenging puzzles, we hope to explore how puzzles are woven into the fabric of life, identify strategies for "solving" life's brainteasers, and share what new puzzles we face in the transition to 2024. When is a service not a service? Come find out!

This is a multigenerational (MG) worship experience. There will be a 5th Sunday Special Collection to benefit Unitarian Universalists for Social Justice (UUSJ) – https://uusj.net/wp1/. Note: There is no Religious Education programming this morning, but the Nursery is open for those who need it.

Minister's Column

Sharing the Light During Troubling Times

Rev. Charlotte

As we will all see and hear during our annual December Music Service, lighting candles and fires is a common spiritual practice, especially at this time of year in the Northern Hemisphere when the winter solstice (December 21) brings about the shortest day and the longest night of the year. This sharing of light and warmth are often seen as symbolic of a larger message of community, of love, and of hope.

This December, I need to feel part of a loving and hope-filled community. For me it is both a personal need, as I continue to grieve the death of my mother in mid-October, and a need in relation to our contemporary world and the events taking place far, far away that nevertheless impact us all.

The war between Russia and Ukraine, now nearly two years since its inception, continues unabated. There appears to be no end in sight. And our own government is so embroiled in its own internal conflicts that it seems we, the United States, may not be much support to the Ukrainians, at least for the time being.

With the invasion by Hamas of southern Israel on October 7th, our attention has shifted to the Middle East and this new war. It is heart-breaking. And very, very complicated. And very much being debated and born-out in our communities here in the United States, including very impolitely in the halls of the U.S. Congress. Many of us have very strong opinions about the situation. I have seen tremendous pain expressed by my UU colleagues on both sides of the conflict. So much so that social media moderators have had to shut down group spaces.

I sincerely hope that we at BRUU don't experience that level of distress!

All of this rancor and turmoil begs questions about how we can inform ourselves of the facts as well as honor our deep and strong emotional reactions at the same time. How can we learn as well as support those in need? What can we do to find our collective way towards a peaceful settlement of the issues involved?

I don't necessarily have any answers, but I am willing to hold an open heart and listen compassionately for the pain being expressed.

I wish we could put into action the kind of effort that has been shown to members of our congregation who have needed help during difficult and challenging circumstances. That concerted work towards a necessary goal has been a godsend to those in need.

Thank you for being part of our caring community!

Blessings to all,

Rev. Charlotte

From the President's Desk

Dear fellow-congregants,

Thanksgiving Day is uniquely American celebration that is different for many people depending on our relation to the United States, so, however you spent this day, I hope it was a good one.

Coming from Ecuador, my mother and I didn't "do" Thanksgiving, until my girlfriend and I invited my mom and siblings to our place for our first celebration. Because nowadays the whole family gathers at the home of a dear family member, we (my husband, mother and I) get to enjoy the meal and company and just help with the cleanup. Definitely, I have much for which to be thankful.

Riding home later with Randy at the wheel and Mom fast asleep in the back seat, my thoughts turned to our beloved congregation. I recalled how we all weathered the pandemic, enduring the numbers of lives lost and missing the simple act of interacting face-to-face. How we struggled with each step forward, considering and debating important decisions, such as ways to share information while respecting individual decisions about masks, and when to open partially or fully. We wanted everyone to be and feel safe. Simultaneously, politics began to devolve, making it difficult to navigate gatherings of family and friends. There's no denying that the past 4 years impacted how we relate to stress and anger, even as the pandemic receded. We learned that congregations are not immune to the impact of frustration and fear, even in the face of making the best decisions we could. I'm grateful that BRUU can approach these holidays still intact, while still recognizing the need for change in the world, and often ourselves.

Sitting at my desk later that evening, I revisited my reasons for agreeing to be BRUU's President and I set out my goals on paper. Now, as we approach the new year, I want to share them with you, hoping to see what you think. They are:

- To foster a BRUU culture of safety and service through transparency, clarity of purpose and resolution of conflict.
- To lead and model a collaborative and covenantal relationship for and among the board, staff, congregants, and visitors by providing opportunities for us to grow and thrive in right relations with one another; and

 To promote satisfying engagement, effectiveness and well-being among our member-volunteers and community volunteers, through regular connection, training and tools to support our volunteer efforts, service recognition and success celebrations throughout the year.

If you are interested in these thoughts or have your own to share, I'd love to hear from you. In the meantime, I'm asking you do the following:

- Engage in congregational activities and programs that interest or excite you.
- Speak up and join in. We need your voice and ideas so that our beloved community can grow and thrive. If you want to help out with any project, please take advantage of learning opportunities and tools available for the role you undertake.
- Be sure to set your boundaries, so you don't experience burnout; and ask for help when you need it!

I'm posting the Board Meeting summary in a separate box called Board Matters. You may read the full Board minutes in KnowledgeBase via access to BRUUnet once they've been approved by the Board.

In the meantime, please feel free to contact me at President@BRUU.org if you have any questions or comments to share.

Together for BRUU,

Angie Carrera, President, Board of Directors

A Discussion on Affordable Housing in Manassas

When: December 7, 7:00-8:30pm

Where: Bull Run Unitarian Universalists, 9350 Main Street (corner of Church and Main), Manassas VA 20110

Who: Del. Michelle Maldonado, members of City Council, local residents Topic: What is the city's responsibility to ensure there is enough affordable housing? How much is "enough"? Should the city have enough housing to match the number of jobs in the city that pay 80% or less of AMI? Plus:

- Where should the city plan for new affordable housing? Should Manassas partner with PW County and Manassas Park to plan for housing that might be in any one of the three jurisdictions?
- Should the city focus exclusively on rental housing, or also subsidize housing to help address wealth inequality and help low-wealth households start increasing wealth through projected increase in housing equity?
- What barriers can be removed or incentives added to make affordable / workforce housing easier to build?

All are invited. Bring your ideas and questions.

Free, of course.

Organized by the Social Justice Committee at Bull Run Unitarian Universalists (BRUU)

WHO CAN AFFORD TO LIVE IN THE CITY?

Manassas City Government Job Listings

Based on Terwilliger Center and National Low Income Housing Coalition's methodologies, NVAHA conducted a small scale wage and occupations analysis to determine who can afford to live in the city. The job listings were gathered on September 7, 2023.

Use the BRUU Sanctuary Infrared Camera to Identify Opportunities to Save Money and Reduce Your Carbon Footprint

John Sunda

The BRUU Sanctuary Infrared Camera is Available for Loan to Inspect Your Home for Air leaks and Poor Insulation.

For more information, inquire at the Coffee Sales table or contact John Sunda (sundajb@gmail.com)

Several years ago the BRUU Sanctuary purchased a portable infrared camera with the intent of loaning it out to BRUU members to help them reduce energy use by identifying areas where energy is being lost through the envelope of their homes.

During the winter and summer months when the difference in temperature between the interior and exterior of your home is greatest, this camera is useful for locating air leaks and missing, defective, and poorly distributed insulation. The camera can also be useful to identify wet/damp spots where active water leaks are suspected.

The infrared camera can be reserved, signed out, and returned at the coffee sales table or by contacting John Sunda. A small donation to help defray the purchase cost is appreciated. A sheet including basic operating instructions is included with the camera. Consult John Sunda with more detailed technical questions.

THE PUZZLER December's Puzzler

Sorting the Elves

I met four of Santa's elves the other day, Angeline, Brandy, Cinnamon and Dixie. While I was talking to them I found out that their surnames were Artanis, Buttercup, Cloverleaf and Dreamchaser, but none of them had a repeated initial (Angeline was not called Artanis for example). Cinnamon was younger than Miss Buttercup, but Angeline was older than Miss Buttercup or Miss Dreamchaser. Miss Artanis was older than Angeline. Can you work out what their full names were?
